

The Everything Room

Country Style : Episode COS-310

Carol Dickinson's multipurpose space makes it possible for her to complete a multitude of daily tasks all in one room, including laundry, ironing, gift wrapping, flower arranging and general crafts.

The large work island contains storage underneath and a hole in the center of the maple top is used for depositing trash into a container directly below. Wall-to-wall cupboards (figure A) contain a variety of items arranged by task. Gift wrap is stored in trash cans on the lower shelf and plastic containers store craft materials.

Figure A

The cabinets are painted to look like faded denim for a casual country look.

One cupboard houses her ironing board, which pulls out from the wall. The hutch in the center provides a focal point and a convenient place to dry flowers and display her collection of baskets.

Easy-care terra cotta covers the countertops and backsplash. A deep farmhouse sink with a painted country motif makes it possible to fill tall vases with water.
